

Natnail Feleke In 90 Words

Natl: Tribute to your soul. You have a striking humility that is too humbling. You are a rare specious to Ethiopian political discourse. Your comprehension is so broad that I always admire the intuitive you are. Your argument is so free of hate and emotion, but very precise with reason and clarity. I never saw you getting angry. You were always even, composed and poised. I always admired your openness, tolerance, enthusiasm and interest to engage and debate. You are a person to emulate. You were all that I wish to Ethiopia; Such a decent citizen!

#In90Words

Atnaf Berhanu In 90 Words

Atnaf: They say you are the youngest of all. I only wish I was as clear, bold, well informed, proactive and vibrant as you are when I was your age. You are fun to be with, such a humble and comforting spirit. You are blessed with ingenious humor. You often speak your heart. You write what you like. You detest injustice. Most of all you are brave enough to speak against it. Your pen was impartial to punish hypocrisy and double standard!

#IN90WORDS

BefeQadu Hailu In 90 Words

He is one of those human beings you like to say to yourself, I am glad our paths crossed. He is a man who took courage to a whole new level; and citizen journalism even further; most importantly, he inspired others to follow his footsteps in the process. This is a person who made speaking the whole truth, nothing but the truth his lifestyle with an incredible sense of work ethic and perseverance. He is never shy to talk about his weaknesses - great personality. We owe you one, Befeqadu Hailu.

By Alemayehu Gameda

#In90Words

Tesfalem Weldeyes In 90 Words

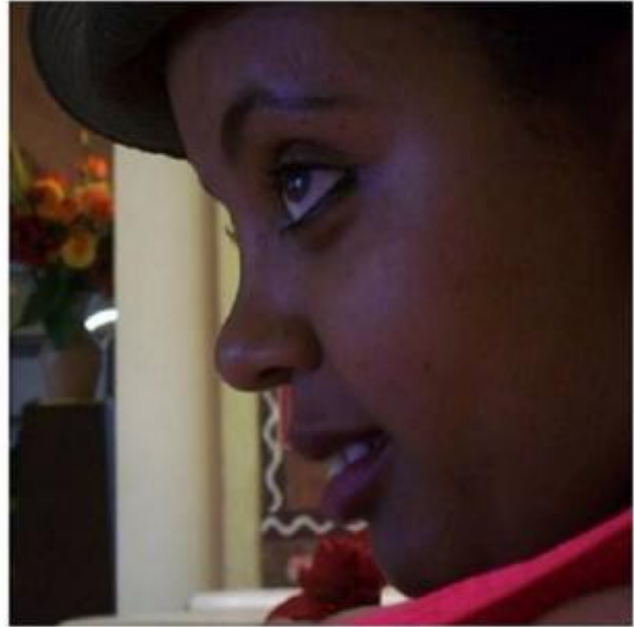

Tesfish: A very good journalist travels in search of stories. A brave journalist journeys to chaotic areas. An adventurous journalist voyages to the unknown. A passionate journalist expends one's own fortune pursuing stories. Tesfalem, you were good, brave, and adventurous journalists full of passion. Tesfish, you were a text book example of old school reporting. You were there when Senator Obama visited Dire Dawa, you witnessed the birth of South Sudan in person. You were a survivor of the Kampala tragedy. You helped raise support 1000s of S.Omo flood victims.

#In90Words

Edom: Edi, your integrity is from the heavens. When the security people asked to enlist you as a potential witness against Zone 9ers, you said 'NO'. When they promised to facilitate your exit from the country, on the condition that you reveal 'secrets' about your friends, you told them 'NO.' And when they gave you a guarantee that you wouldn't stay in jail if you collaborate in incriminating your friends, you said 'NO.'

You render Game Theory's 'Prisoner's Dilemma' archaic by virtue of your integrity

”

Zelalem Kibret In 90 Words

Zola: Tribute to your shining brilliance! You simply are one of a kind, the masterpiece of my generation. I often close my eyes and contemplate, would there be anyone out there who is as well read and well versed as Zelalem is from our generation? My answer often shock me to pieces. You truly represent the cream of my generation. You are our pride. Nothing shame me into silence than your knowledge, depth and humor and my lack of it. I never had a single article of yours that I read and that didn't make me nod my head with awe and respect. You are simply extraordinary!

